I would like to register a complaint regarding the proposed rate increase by Avista on April 3, 2008. While I understand price increases have to occur, with all the other price increases going on (the big one being gas prices and how that in turn affects the cost of almost every other product and service), our wage increases in this 'right to work' or as most of us in the Silver Valley area call it the 'right to starve' State are not even coming close to balancing out all these increases! How about just a little less profit for Avista and these other companies that continually request rate increases (or) mandatory minimum wage increase every they receive approval? Because I know I sure don't get to pass off the rise in cost of everything to anyone else. So, why do big profiting companies think that they should get to?!

Thank you for your time,
Sandy Parker

I oppose any and all energy increases by Avista. They over pay their executives and underpay the average employees. Large wastes of time and energy are constant. They have a gas fired power plant on the Rathdrum Prairie and we have to pay for the gas that runs the plant and the electricity that is produced is distributed to the common grid. This last increase was mostly passed on to the residential consumer not the high load or extra usage consumer.

I feel that we should get to comment a lot sooner than we did. This notice came with the last billing from Avista.
