Dear Idaho Public Utilities Commissioners:

Being an Avista Utilities customer and resident of Idaho, I am concerned for the future of our energy availability and production. The science is clear that renewal forms of energy are substantially more economical and efficient, so why not proceed in this direction? Other neighboring states have accomplished such agreements with Avista to ensure clean, safe energy and Idaho should follow suit.

Clean, renewable energy sources are our society's main defense against the ongoing climate change we are experiencing. To continue burning coal is not only unsafe for our health, but counterproductive toward a self-sufficient society. Renewal energy is the only direction our society should be heading. The rest of the world understands it, and now it is time for Idaho to realize this fact, as well.

I strongly support Avista moving toward 100% renewable, clean energy for the state of Idaho. Thank you.

Dear Idaho Public Utilities Commissioners:

I am commenting on behalf of Berg, McLaughlin & Nelson, Chtd., a small business that is an Avista customer. Clean energy is important to our company as we want to see stable rates in the future. We also want Avista, rather than the rate payers, to absorb the actual cost of doing business - which includes cleaning up Coalstrip, supporting its employees, and adjusting to new energy sources. Climate change is no longer a debate, and ignoring this issue is financially unsustainable. We support Avista's proposed transition to clean energy and hope to see clean energy become a reality for Idaho.

Dear Idaho Public Utilities Commissioners:

I am an Avista customer and I am deeply concerned about how our energy is produced. Climate change is the single most important issue facing the planet and I very much support the transition to clean energy. There is simply no reason to continue our reliance on coal produced energy - it's dirty to burn, it requires transportation with the attendant problems, it's extraction is problematic - in short it is the energy source of the past, not the future. I strongly encourage the Commission to pressure Avista to make the transition to clean energy.

Dear Idaho Public Utilities Commissioners:

I am an Avista customer and I support clean energy because Idaho is beautiful, but we are not the only beautiful place, nor can we maintain our beauty in a "bubble." What happens in Washington or Montana or Canada effects us all, and what we do effects our neighbors as well. If Avista believes it is possible to transition to clean energy sources for some of its customers in Washington, it must be possible to transition to clean energy sources for its Idaho customers, too. The global scourge of carbon dioxide emissions must stop for the welfare of us all. Yes, we are small, but every journey is a series of small steps. Take this one on behalf of your customers.

Dear Idaho Public Utilities Commission. My name is Susan Prez and I am a mother and have been a school administrator and teacher for over 26 years. I am writing to address climate change and the encourage Avista and PUD to step up and join the growing movement to clean energy.

As a teacher of young children, we teach as if they will be enjoying a bright future. A future that does not include devastating results from climate change that we know are on the horizon. I want to Avista to be a leader in the "new 100% clean energy future" our children deserve. I ask that Avista holds the concerns of the majority of citizens in Idaho and around the world in all aspects as you analyze and weigh the impacts of climate change (via the social cost of carbon) in all its studies and decisions that impact its Idaho customers;

It not only is a moral responsibility we all hold but an immediate emergency. I ask that Avista implement and support a responsible, but rapid, transition to 100% clean energy.

On behalf of all the children around the world, thank you for considering my plea in you decision making process. Susan Prez
