Comment: "As a proponent of solar power for everyone, homeowners, businesses, farms, cities, I want to speak up for farmers for whom solar power can be a very valuable way to power their business. Clearly the amount of power generated by agricultural solar systems for irrigation is small and should not affect Idaho Power's total system. Farmers should not be limited in installing the total amount of power production they need for their operations. Before accepting Idaho Power's request to close the net metering program, please keep the public comment period open so farmers have time after harvest to make their voices heard. Thank you for considering my comments."
