Comment: "The rapid expansion of high voltage transmission capacity in the West is needed to fill in a critical and missing gap on our path toward a climate solution. A truck has little value without a road to travel on. Air travel relies on runways and airports in order to function. Renewables can't solve our emissions problem without a way to connect power production to power need. New and better lines are needed and needed quickly. Find a way to do it both fairly and quickly. Idaho and the world are counting on you."
