Comment: "Regards to Idaho Power asking for more money I don't see where there are multiple coal power plants in Idaho, there is only one, (Idaho Power Langley Gulch Power Plant), Idaho Power owns 33% (704 MW) of the Jim Bridger Plant in Wyoming, 50% (260 MW) of the North Valmy Plant in Nevada, and 10% (57.5 MW) of the Boardman Plant in Oregon. These are in different states and those residents benefit from the power generated by those plants, this doesn't justify an increases to Idaho residents. The snake River never dried up and with all the wind/solar energy projects that Idaho Power has involvement , how can they justify a rate increase to Idaho residents, I feel this increase is not justified and perhaps they should stop limiting the consumer with the 3 tier system, make other changes to the billing structure and stop passing on the higher costs to the consumer when they have money to invest in other projects, projects that benefit other states and not necessarily Idaho residents. Idaho Power asks the consumer to be conservative on power yet the company itself is not thrifty. Many elderly, single parents, disabled vets, etc.. struggle to pay the high cost of heating and cooling as it is now let alone adding $11.07 (@ minimum usage on the 3 tier system) to their monthly bills. Sure Idaho Power offers program information to assist individuals with paying their power bills yet many of these organizations run out of money and or refuse to help. I know first hand as I have had to help family members with their power and shut off notice because they were unable to get assistance. People are struggling and this increase will do nothing more than cause further burdens upon the consumers. Tell Idaho Power to go after the real crook, the one who caused the increase in fuel and coal, the democratic regime, Joe Biden!!!!!! "

Comment: "Every year Idaho Power has a rate increase. It can be called several different things, but it is still a rate increase. Where do residential customers that include families and senior citizens on fixed incomes get a break. Small and large businesses will pass their increase on to consumers which will mean these rate increases will be passed onto the same residential customers who are already struggling. Please do not allow these increases to continue at the whim of Idaho Power."
