Comment: "Started at Idaho Power's website, was unable to find the info needed to make this comment on the Home Page, thus felt I needed to put input here. As a former home owner (the bank and my family) I have been both a renter and a home owner when it comes to paying a power bill. I followed a link on the home page to give my feed back on this increase and was told as a "renter" with no say in what happens to the out dated heat source I must use, my input is no good. As a renter am I to go out and change the type heat my building offers to meet my personal desire to live what I call an ECO life instead of an EGO life. Now ECO can mean one of two words that are common when we talk about Ecology or Economics. To me they are Both good ECO words. Now EGO is the other choice and right now in the USA that is run a muck. Lots and lots of EGO deciding what to do. Please Look at this from the renters place and decide with me that we have so little input when compared to EGO of our Landlords and mine just happens to be HUD. Try to get that monster to make a change for one old woman in Idaho - the first question is where is Idaho and why is she unhappy with potatoes? "
