Dear Idaho Public Utilities Commission:

I support any energy and technology that captures, sequesters, or prevents the production of greenhouse gases.

Except maybe for hydroelectricity from the 4 Lower Snake River dams. For the very legacy of Salmon in Idaho, please breach those, like yesterday.

Dear Idaho Public Utilities Commission:

I am a Rocky Mountain Power customer and I support clean energy because ... it will reduce climate change, and promote less intrusive environmental impacts.

Please consider strongly the options of wind, solar and other emerging green sources of energy.

I am not a fan of nuclear due to a lack of recycling of spent fuel rods and the damage created to fragile ecosystems.

Yours truly

Jay Astle

Dear Idaho Public Utilities Commission:

Idaho PUC,

I support the current direction of Rocky Mountain Power to move to a more sustainable and renewable portfolio. The press release issued by RMP on July 7, 2020 concerning their plans for adding 1,823 megawatts of new solar resources, 95 megawatts of new battery energy storage, and 1,920 megawatts of new wind resources by the end of 2023 is extremely encouraging. I support this direction in my utility company and would like the PUC to continue to promote similar efforts with RMP and with other power providers.

It is clear to me that RMP is listening to its customers and relying on good data concerning climate change and the need for renewable energy sources. I encourage the PUC to continue moving RMP and all power providers in this direction.

Regards,

Micah
