Comment: "Hello, I am a builder and developer. This case reduces the amount of allowed footage for line installment. The amount of reduction from existing allowances is substantial. It creates an undue hardship on developers/builders and in return future home owners. The affordability of housing suffers from these type of cost increases. The amount of included line installation taking this large of a decrease seems unreasonable. The 34' feet proposal well result in charges to most new residences. The 196 feet could be reduced but not as much as proposed. "
