E. ESTABLISHMENT AND FURNISHING OF SERVICE

1. Application for Service

Application for service must be made on the Company's standard form, which becomes a contract when accepted in writing, or electronically, by the Company or upon establishment of service. The Subscriber may be required to pay in advance all charges for the first billing period and connection charge if applicable. The conditions of such contracts are subject to all provisions of this and other applicable tariffs. Requests for additional service may be made orally, if provided in the original contract, and no advance payment will be required. A move within the exchange area is not considered to terminate the contract and orders for such may be made orally.

2. Telephone Numbers

Telephone numbers are assigned to the Company by the Federal Communications Commission, and in turn, are assigned to customers for the establishment of telephone service. The use of a telephone number by a customer does not establish property rights to that number, nor does it guarantee service through any particular central office. The Company retains full responsibility for numbers until such time as a number is transferred to another provider through a local number portability agreement. As such the Company reserves the right to change numbers when it is necessary to continue adequate delivery of service. When existing service is continued for a new Customer, the telephone number assigned to the former Customer may be retained by the new Customer only: (a) if the former Customer consents and properly notifies the Company in writing; and (b) if arrangements acceptable to the Company are made by the new Customer to pay all outstanding charges against the service to the Company.

Voice/Data Protection Usage Sensitive - allows a Subscriber to inhibit intrusion features (e.g., Call Waiting and Operator Verification) when the Subscriber's line is busy. Voice/Data Protection prevents data transmission errors typically caused by the interruption tones associated with such features. This feature differs from standard Voice/Data Protection in that the feature remains in effect for the duration of only one call upon activation, and the Subscriber is charged on a per usage basis. The Subscriber can activate the feature by dialing (*94) pushbutton or 1194 rotary.

Wake Up Service - allows a Subscriber to dial an access code, receive a second dial tone, and then dial a time at which a wake-up call is desired. The Subscriber can access the feature by dialing (*76) push-button and can cancel the request by dialing (*77) push-button.

Voice mailboxes can store and save messages in differing degrees, depending on the level of service ordered by the subscriber. Credit for service interruption will be provided if service is interrupted for a period exceeding twenty four (24) hours. The credit shall be the monthly amount for service divided by 30 days times the number of days that service is continually interrupted.

The Telephone Company is not responsible for lost or dropped messages. Periodically, the Telephone Company will update the software supporting voice mail service. During this period, voice mail will not be operational. This period will not exceed 24 hours; therefore, credit for service not received will not be allowed for regular software upgrades.

Voice mail can be programmed to answer a subscriber's telephone line after a set number of rings. A subscriber has access to a voice mailbox by dialing a seven- or ten-digit access number followed by a personal identification code. The subscriber can then retrieve messages and save them or erase them. The subscriber can also program a personal greeting that will play when voice mail answers a telephone line.

The standard mailbox features include forwarding to the mailbox on no answer (subscriber selectable for 2 to 5 rings), forwarding to the mailbox on busy line, and a new message indication (stutter dial tone).

Subscribers using call waiting may not choose to have calls forwarded to voice mail on a busy signal. These subscribers will be interrupted with a call waiting tone burst for as many rings as the subscriber selects for no answer forwarding. If the subscriber does not answer the call waiting tone, the second caller will be forwarded to voice mail.

8. Definitions

- a. Billed number screening: allows the customer to identify to the telephone company that they will not accept any third-number and/or collect calls for billing to their telephone number. The Company places information regarding this screening restriction into a database that is normally accessed by operator service providers prior to such calls being completed. When customers have indicated that they do not wish to accept billing for any third-number or collect calls, the database will not validate charging for such a call. The operator service provider can then decide whether to complete the call based on this information provided in the database. Billed number screening can be ordered to screen third number billed calls, collect calls, or both.
- b. Central Office (CO) implemented coin line: Access line that provides coin signaling.

The installation charge will be negotiated between the subscriber and the Company. The subscriber is responsible for the maintenance of any subscriber-owned wiring. No recurring monthly charge will apply in this situation. Continuous property extensions are defined as those where the drop to the additional access point comes directly from the premises of the main access line termination and does not come out of the distribution cable. Continuous property extensions requiring an additional network interface are defined as those where the drop to the additional access point comes out of the distribution cable and requires an additional network interface. When off-premise extension service is provided on Non-continuous property, each location is treated as an access line termination and the applicable access line rates will apply at each location. Installation will be performed based on all applicable non-recurring service connection elements.
